ODDS IN THE WINTER BOOKS CREATE GENERAL INTEREST.

Local Turfmen Say That the Prices on the Big Handleaps Are Liberal-New York Club Signs Kennedy-Still Another "Terrible Turk" Exploded.

Racing men are busy looking over the edds as quoted in O'Leary's winter book on the Brooklyn and Suburban handicaps and the American Derby. The fact that J. B Haggin's four-year-old colt Watercolor been made favorite for the Suburban Frank Farrell's Sir Dixon colt Blues choice for the Brooklyn appears to meet with general approval, especially among those members of the Metropolitan Turf Association who are in town just now. Though Clarence H Mackay's Banastar received top weight from Handicapper Vosburgh in both the Brooklyn and Suburban, turf specu-lators are inclined to the belief that the liberal odds of 12 to 1 and 15 to 1, quoted against him in the big events, are about right, especially in view of the fact that Banastar considered an uncertain quantity because of the crippling he received in the Brooklyn last year. O'Leary's prices, on the whole, are considered compatible with public form and from the drift of conversation around the hotels where turfmen conparticular winter book. Joe Ullman and a number of well-known bookmakers intend to send out a list of prices from Hot Springs on these events in a few days, so that there will be ample opportunity to place wagers on the results. As a rule there is much profit in these winter books and for that reason the backers of them are enabled to quote much better odds than later on.

With fifty odd entries, the layers have a royal chance to pocket much easy money as the declarations are announced and by the time the race is ready to be run with only a dozen horses at the post, the chances for laying away the gold in the strong boxes be readily appreciated. Betting in the winter books has gradually developed into a craze. Las: winter O'Leary did a rushing business, receiving bets of all denom-inations on the American Derby and yet keeping his prices steady. He took in a small fortune on Capt. S. S. Brown's Garry Herrmann and when the colt was withdrawn the money placed on his chances was so With 8 to 1 quoted against to be a rush to get aboard at these figures, for if the Watercress colt is not withdrawn almost sure of going to the post with a short price about him. Gold Heels, with 12 to 1 and 10 to 1 against him in the Suba short price about him. Gold feets, while 12 to 1 and 10 to 1 against him in the Sub-urban and Brooklyn respectively, will prob-ably attract a lot of money and the same may be said of Heno, with 15 to 1 in the Suburban. and Rochampton, with 20 to 1 in each event. Oon Paul, Jacob Worth's fine gelding, appears to be held a trifle too cheap with 25 to 1 against him, and will probably carry rable money at these figures. Green Autolight and Watercure, who are ith brilliant consistency on the inter, are also thought to have been ban and so to 1 in the Brooklyn, is regarded as another good thing.

J. F. Madden's Lanceman, a 40 to 1 chance in both eyents, is almost sure to have a substantial following. Keynote, still another 40 to 1 shot, is all present in strong favor arrong a certian crowd of horsemen. In making McCheshey, Abe Frank and Runnels edual favorities for the Derby at 10 to 1, O'Leary bases his judgment on the work of these horses in the West hast season. But at the same time he does not take many chances with "Lucky" Baldwin's Cruzados, W. C. Whitney's Endurance by Right and C. H. Mackay's thene, all of whom are at 15 to 1, 1, 16 Follaushee's shifty colt Cameron, who was a crack two-year-old on Eastern tracks last tear, looks strangely with 50 to 1 against him. Keynote in this event is a 75 to 1 looks strangery countries a 75 to 1 as is the case with Leonora Loring, as high up among the two-year-old last year. Altogether, O'Leary has plies of last year. Altogether, O'Leary has specceded in stirring up an unusual amount of interest in these three races for this time in the year.

"Rearing Bill" Kennedy, who pitched for the Brooklyns for seven years and was released outright a couple of months ago, has signed with the New York club for the coming season. It was believed that Kennedy, as soon as Brooklyn let him go, joined forces with Bebinson's St. Louis club, but this appears to have been only a rumor. Kennedy is a vereran, a hard worker and a winner with good support. There were times, however, when his pitching was erratic and for that reason Manager Hanlon concluded not to hold him. But the change will probably benefit the blonde-haired boxman who can to hold him. But the change will probably benefit the blonde-haired boxman who can be counted on to strengthen the New Yorks where they are particularly weak.

The Connecticut Baseball League will be strengthened this year by the addition of Hartford and Springfield to the circuit. In this organization are four veterans of the National League. Jim O'Rourke, Roger Conner, Tom Tucker and Jerry Denny, who are still able to play the game. Roger Conner will menage the Springfield club this year. The big first baseman, who used to be a favorite with New York crowds, says that he can play the bag and hit the ball just as well as he ever did. Jim O'Rourke caught for the Bridgeport team last year, and those who saw him say that his batting and throwing to bases showed that he is still very much in the game.

o Onaha last Saturday night the Turk looked is if he had been training on egg shells and nilk. Wouradoulah agreed to throw Burns pointed of fifteen minutes. Burns strenuously objected, with the result that he rolled the furk around the ring and wrenched his neck until the Oriental was nearly choked and then here him down so hard that the boards were tracked. Wouradoulah's backers immediately withdrew their financial support and in the liture there will be no juicy steaks for the suitan's so-called champion.

sultan's so-called champion. So many boxing clubs are springing up in Philadelphia that there is talk of demanding a $1,000 license of each organization to do business. The situation in the Quaker City on the boxing question is rather amusing. Though Maher and Sharkey were arrested and placed under heavy bonds to keep the peace before they entered the ring for their memorable fiasco, the authorities have allowed all sorts of fights to be held since that time without the slightest bit of interference. There has been no attempt to suppress slugging and the rules have been interpreted any old way. The fact that the authorities do not allow a referee to give a decision is regarded as an absurdity, for the men are permitted to fight just the same and a decision would not do any more harm. As it is, bettors cannot expect to cash their wagers unless a knockout occurs and for that reason eleeptroducing punches are in great demand.

Peter Maher wants to fight Jim Jeffries to The Sun Philadelphia as follows: "I wish you would inform Mr. Jim Jeffries through the columns of your paper that Peter Maher of Ireland is anxious to tackle him in a bout, limited from six to twenty-five rounds. Jeffries cannot very well ignore Maher, who is a legitimate aspirant for heavyweight honors. If Jeffries is so willing to distribute one, as he says he is, Maher is ready to do business; now that the chances of Jeffries and Fitzsimmons having it out seem so remote, Peter is ready to do business on Jeffries, own terms, 75 per cent. to the winner and 25 to the loser. As he has given all the other heavyweights a chance, I cannot understand why he has seen fit all along to ignore Maher."

NEWS OF THE HARNESS HORSES. William G. Pollock Favors Governing Body

ndent of National Trotting Assn. At the Holland House a reporter of THE Sux met William G. Pollock as he was leaving for the West yesterday afternoon, and in response to a question as to why he re-tired from the Board of Review he said: "I don't care to do much talking. As you know, at the meeting of the stewards of the Grand Circuit at Detroit last month, I contended, and know I was right, too, that it would be really better for Grand Circuit racing were we track owners and associations who annually give away hundreds of thousands of dollars, to secure to ourselves our own governing body and set of rules, independent of any association or associations.

"Take my individual case," he continued "When Col. Edwards died the affairs of the association were thrown into a chaotic state no one had ever helped him run the meetings. as elsewhere when a man is so inclined h can do all of the work and the others will stay in the background, simply receiving whatever dividends may be issued and utterly useless as helping factors.

"They wanted me to take the association in hand: my place adjoined it and I had al-ways taken interest in turf matters. I consented with the provision that Harry Devereux was to help me, knowing that in him I would have an able and ever enthusiastic assistant. We have a plant worth a quarter of a million dollars. the Grand Circuit meeting then given rentfree to the amateurs to race over on Saturdays. If I say it, no association does more for trotting interests—the owner, breeder, trainer or race patron than do we.

"When it comes to letting men who have less at stake by far, who are taxed ten where we pay one hundred dollars, run our affairs, I am on the defensive. It is all wrong this voting on all important matters by proxy method. If associations cannot send men or appear through the owners at the meetings, what is the sense of us track owners letting it go on this way forever?

"I saw men yesterday voting on rules, passages, amendments and all else, having fifty votes to my one. I never have seen them at a Grand Circuit meeting, nor do I ever see their names as breeders, anateur drivers, or, in any way prominently identified with the sport. I confess a bitterness of feeling and know I was dropped from the Board of Review because of a pique on the part of George W. Archer, a man who has a plunt at Rochester, but who cannot give Grand Circuit meetings now under the New York State pool laws, Is he the man to be First Vice-President of the great National Association? No. Decidedly he is not, nor should be have fortynine proxies allotted him to yote in the congresses.

cidedly he is not, nor should be have lovey nine proxies allotted him to vote in the congresses.

"I was dropped to please Mr. Archer and those who want perpetual office holding with something of honor for nothing. They can attend their legitimate business enterprises and once a year give up ten days time to sit on the cases.

"The cases before the board annually invariably are brought about on the little tracks, no Grand Circuit case of moment in years. These half-mile track members cause all the trouble, want follower to run the affairs of the National, and, as we are at present the Grand Circuit has no voice at any congress or conference. You will, I believe, see the day when we have our own body of governors and our own rules, aside from the National Trotting Association.

"Yesterday, when Andrew J. Welch, who knows more about racing in a day than the entire body there in a year, took the floor, he had a chary reception and the little men' voted their proxies in force and snowed him under. I suppose had he been a candidate for the Board of Review, he, too, would have been a traitor, because he, like myself, puts thousands into racetracks, gives away other thousands in purses and is an active factor year after year.

As nearly all visiting horsemen had de-other thousands in purses and is an active factor year after year.

As nearly all visiting horsemen had departed for home, the other side could not be interviewed. Locally, the feeling favored William Pollock and those who were close observers at the congress were surprised and indignant that the new rules were voted for with such speed, half of the delegates not hearing Mr. McCully's reading of the reconstruction at all fully. He tried hard to make all phrases and the purport evident to all, yet many seemed simply desirous of getting the matter out of hand and home as soon as ever possible. One man seconded all the amendments, Mr. Bowen from Philadelphia and only one other, Charles A. Willis, seemed much interested in securing the abolition of heat betting.

Nash Ineligible to Row for Columbia.

A severe blow to Columbia's rowing pros-pects was struck on Wednesday night by the Board of Stewards of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association who declared Stephen P. Nash, '03 law, ineligible to row on the Columbia crew. For the past three years Nash has rowed at No. 5 in the Varsity boat at lumbia crew. For the past three years Nash has rowed at No. 5 in the 'Varsity boat at Poughkeepsie and was accounted the most powerful man in the boat. Nash's ineligibility has been placed on the ground of the four year rule because he won a prize ngainst Cornell four years ago as a member of the Columbia track team. The decision to debar him was reached at a private conference on Wednesday night between Prof. Durand of Cornell, Francis Sedgwick Bangs of Columbia and Thomas D. Reath, Chairman of the Rowing Committee at the University of Pennsylvania.

A new rule has also been adopted by the stewards to govern the eligibility of men for the second 'Varsity race between Columbia, Cornell and the University of Pennsylvania in May. Under the new regime no man shall be eligible for this race who has ever rowed, either in a recognized 'Varsity crew at any of the cooperating colleges, or in a 'Varsity four, or in a Henley crew. This rule will cut out many candidates who would have been fully eligible to row under last year's regulations which disqualified only men who rowed in a 'Varsity eight at Poughkeepsie.

It is stated, also that the stewards favor the Schuylkill course for the race instead of that suggested on the Harlem. The uncertainty of currents and tides on the Harlem was the sole objection to the course.

horse Radiant Heat be denied when the track is heavy."
Shortly after the betting was posted on the third race, Corrella ran away a mile and an eighth in her preliminary gallop. She was excused by the stewards and twenty minutes ordered for a new book. Jessie Jarboe, backed from 8 to 5 to 6 to 5, went through in the fifth event. Annoy celebrated her first start by running a good second. A good thing was cut loose in the first race in McWilliams, a four-year-old maiden. He was played down from 8 to 1 to 15 to 5 and came home an easy winner. The second was only a gallop for Farnassus, who led from end to end and wen gallopping by four lengths. Dr. Hart, the favorite, finished strong, getting the place in the last few jumps. Summaries:

It was said among turfmen yesterday that William K. Vanderbilt will make his first appearance on the turf this year by entering a number of his thoroughbreds in the coming spring meeting of the New Memphis Jockey Club It was generally believed that Mr Vanderbilt would wait Memphis Jockey Ciub It was generally believed that Mr Vanderbilt would wait for the spring meeting of the Coney Island Jockey Club, of which he is President, before beginning the campaign, but his decision to race at Memphis is said to have his horses tried out early T C McDowell, it is generally believed, will train Mr Vanderbilt's horses this year. At least that was the report in circulation during the Brighton meeting last summer when it was first announced that the millionaire would have a racing stable. If McDowell assumes the task there will be much interest manifested in his labors, for he is one of the best trainers in the country. The advent of Mr Vanderbilt to the turf will undoubtedly add to the boom that racing is bound to enjoy. He will probably serve to increase the rivalry that already exists among other rich owners, notably W. C. Whitney, James R. Keene, Clarence H. Mackay and J. B. Haggin.

Word comes from California that Burns & Waterhouse, who control one of the largest racing stables on the coast, have decided to run their horses in future on Eastern and Middle Wessern tracks. They will send a strong stable to Saratoga, including a number of two-year-olis. Mr Waterhouse gives as a reason for this change that he and his partner are heavily interested in tracks controlled by the New California Jockey Club and that they wish to avoid any disastisfaction that may arise through racing their stable at Oakland or Tanforan.

WRESTLING.

George Bothner and Charley Leonhardt Ready for Their Match To-night.

George Bothner, the local crack, has trained in a novel manner for his match with Charley Leonhardt of Newark at Maennerchor Hall, 203 East Fifty-sixth street, to-night. At the Knickerbocker A. C. Bothner wrestles with from fitteen to twenty men every day. Every morning Bothner takes a swim in the East River and after his dip he receives a rub down. He says that this is a great tonic. Leonhardt will undertake to throw Bothner twice in one hour at catch-as-catch-can style. George V. Tuohey, manager of Charley Wittmar, the Cincinnati wrestler, has matched his man for several contests in the East. Wittmar's first appearance will be at Hartford and from that city he will visit New York and tackle all comers for a week at a local theatre.

Jack Carkeek, who has done some excellent work in England, informs THE SUN that he will visit America next June. Carkeek writes: "My engagements at the music halls will be at an end next June and I will positively be at leisure then to do as I like. I have planned to return to the United States, as I am desirous of visiting my folks in Wis-consin. When I reach America I will consider any reasonable proposal for a match. The affair will be held at Washington Hall, this city, on Feb. 28. The conditions are best two out of three falls at catch-as-catch-can style. John Piening is to be the referee.

The date for the match between John Piening, the "Butcher Boy," and Carl Norbeck or Norway was selected yesterday. The two have signed new articles of agreement to meet at Lenox Lyccum on Feb. 28. The style of the contest is Græco-Roman and the affair is limited to two hours. Norbeck is the best man in his class in Norway. This will be his first essay in this country. A very interesting wrestling bout at mixed style was held on Wednesday at Sulzer's Harlem River Park, 127th street and Second avenue. The contesting parties were Prof. Atlas of St. Louis and Prof. John Alexanderson, the "Harlem Strong Boy." Atlas undertook to throw Alexanderson twice in one hour. The first bout was catch-as-catch-can. Alexanderson did not know much about the rules, but his grit kept Atlas busy, and a stiff contest resulted. Atlas got his opponent's shoulders to the mai in 22 minutes. After a rest of five minutes the two went at it again. This time Græco-Roman rules prevailed. Alexanderson seemed to be right at home at this style. At the twenty-fifth minute Alexanderson seemed to be right at home at this style. DATES OF PRINCETON GAMES. Football With Cornell on Nov. 1. With Columbia a Week or Two Earlier.

It has practically been decided that Princeton and Columbia will play football next fall. The Graduate Advisory and Executive committees of Princeton met last Saturday and discussed next season's football schedule. and as a result of that meeting it is now about settled that the game will be played in New York. As told in The Sun recently, the football negotiations between the two uni-versities since being reopened have proversities since being reopened have pro-gressed smoothly Columbia was willing to play the game in either New York or Princeton, and Princeton was willing to come to New York again. As the next Princeton-Cornell game will probably be played at Princeton, the Columbia game will be played here; but after next fall it is planned to play Princeton, the Columbia gams will be played here; but after next fall it is planned to play the Princeton-Cornell games in New York Columbia and Princeton will meet on the gridiron next fail either on the second or third Saturday in October and the Princeton-Cornell game will take place on Nov 1.

Princeton's football schedule is about complete as to feams, but the dates have not been definitely fixed on in all cases. The final arrangement of these depends on the date of the Yale-Princeton game. The Tigers' next game with Yale will be on the 15th or 22d of November. Which date is selected depends on what Harvard and Yale do, but even should the Crimson and the Blue get together again the Yale-Princeton game may follow the Harvard-Yale game instead of preceding it, as was the case the last two years. C. C. Cuyler of the Princeton Graduate Advisory Committee was asked yesterday if Princeton had done anything about playing Harvard.

"We are not building on that," he replied. "though a date can easily be arranged if Harvard wants one. Princeton is always sporty."

In the matter of football schedules, Yale

Harvard wants one. Princeton is always sporty.

In the matter of football schedules, Yale is planning one for next fall, chiefly with a view to bringing the team up to its two big games fit for the struggle. There will be changes from last year. The Annapolis game will probably be found missing, as the trip South last year took the starch out of the Elis to an extent that they were some time in recovering. It has already been announced that Yale will play Syracuse University and Dartmouth, and the Carlisle Indians may find a place on the coming schedule.

Danny Duane Knocked Out by Otto Sieloff at Chicago.

The winning streak of Danny Duane, the local lightweight, was checked on Thursday local lightweight, was checked on Thursday night by Otto Sieloff of Chicago. The pair figured in a six-round bout before the Acme A. C. Chicago, and in the sixth round Duane was knocked out. Throughout the mill Duane showed up poorly. His punches lacked force, and he fought in random fashion. In the early part of the combat, although badly winded, Duane staved off Sieloff's rushes by clever defensive work. In the last round Duane had just enough strength to neld up his hands. Sieloff went for the body and pounded Duane hard. Danny was sent down twice with well-simed right-handers. The third time that Duane was floored was with a left-hand hook, and Duane was unable to respond to the count of ten.

Joe Gans signed articles of agreement yesterday to box George McFadden of this city. The two are to meet in a six-round bout before the Penn A. C., Philadelphia. which is being managed by Martin Julian. The weight is 138 pounds at 3 o'clock in the afternoon of the fall Billy Rocap will act as referee. The management does not expect a fizzle, as both men have posted $500 for appearance $250 for weight.

ICE YACHTS IN STIRRING RACE

SCUD GOES THROUGH THE ICE ON THE HUDSON.

Jack Frost of the Hudson River Club Scores a Victory for the Challenge Pennant of America - Winner Beats Record for a Twenty-Mile Measured Course.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Feb. 13. - The second race for the ice yacht challenge pennant of America between the yachts Scud and Dreadnaught of Shrewsbury Ice Yacht Club of Red Bank, and the Icicle and Jack Frost of the Hudson River Ice Yacht Club of Poughkeepsie this afternoon, was the most exciting yacht race that has been sailed for the pennant. The race resulted in a victory for the Hudson River club, the Jack Frost crossing the line first in 53 minutes and 24 seconds, and the Icicle second, in 57 minutes 58% seconds. The Dreadnaught was third in 62 minutes 12% seconds, and the big lateen rigged yacht Scud, met with a most sensational accident, the yacht breaking through the ice, compelling the two men in the cockpit to jump for safety. A strong northeast wind blew over the course and the time made by the Jack Frost is the record for a twenty-mile surveyed course.

yachts were lined up at the lower buoy, the course being two and a half miles up the river and return, to be sailed over four times. At 11.30 o'clock the quartette went away to the eastward on the port tack. The Icicle took the lead and was the first to reach the east shore. The Dreadnaught came about and headed up the river, closely followed by the Jack Frost and Scud. The Jack Frost went to the head of the line and raced with the Scud for first position. the second port tack the Frost and Soud had raced with the Scud for first position. On the second port tack the Frost and Scud had a hard race for the upper stake and the Shrewsbury yacht took the lead for the only time during the race, she turned the upper stake just a minutes after the start and the Frost followed 30 seconds later. The Icicle was now but fifteen seconds behind the Frost after turning the upper stake and the Dreadnaught 30 seconds behind the Frost after turning the upper stake and the Dreadnaught 30 seconds behind the Icicle.

The Frost turned the lower stake 35 seconds ahead of the Scud. At this stage of the race all the vacilits began to leave the ice. The Frost gained considerable ground on the Icicle and Scud in turning the upper stake and started back up the river the Frost had increased her lead. The Scud was making desperate efforts to overtake the Icicle, which had a lead of half a mile. These positions were not changed for the next two and a half miles and with but five more miles to go the Jack Frost had a lead of over three tainutes. The Icicle led the Scud by 50 seconds. The Jack Frost came down the river making but three tacks in the whole leg. She crossed the line a winner in 55 minutes 24 second.

The Icicle was just turning the upper stake and the Scud mer with an accident that nearly cost Tillerman Robbins and Mate Asay their lives. She was on the starboard tack going toward the west shore only half a mile from the seventeen-and-a-half-unie stake. A hundred feet ahead of him Tillerman Robbins awa a bad crack in the ice. His yacht was going at such a rapid rate that to turn it to one side or the other meant to wreck the rigging of the yacht. He quickly decided to try and jump the crack, which showed considerable water. The port and starboard runners cleared the crack incely, but the rudder went under the ice and brought the vacht to a standstill almost instantly. The heavy wind blowing on the starboard side drove the port side runner plank under the water and the big craft turned over on her side. The two men in the cock

Yale Has Not Bropped Columbia From Football Schedule.

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 13 -Alan Fox, manager of the Yale 'Varsity football association, put a quietus on the story that Yale had dropped Columbia from its list for a football game next fall. He said:
"At the present time I am corresponding with Manager Abbott of the Columbia team, but we have reached no definite understanding in regard to the matter. I have also had letters from two prominent alumni of Columbia who are taking an active interest in the question and are very desirous of arranging a game, or at least in assisting in the arrangement of a game between Yale and Columbia. The Columbia manager wants the game played in New York next fall, but such will not be the case, as Yale is opposed to playing in New York. Our principal reason for refusing to play in New York is that the field is no field on which to play such a game. The Columbia people are very anxious that a game should be played and might be willing to come to New Haven to meet Yale." bia who are taking an active interest in the
